

WHERE TO FIND IDEAL AMERICAN

Elder Morris Says He Is in the Mormon Church.

BACKBONE OF THIS NATION

GREAT FUTURE IS PREDICTED FOR THE SAINTS.

"If the true ideal of an American is to be found in this country he will be found among the Mormon people, and this people will yet become the backbone of this nation." Such was the statement made in the tabernacle yesterday by Elder Nephil L. Morris in a discourse delivered before an audience that packed the lower floor of the building.

Mr. Morris began his remarks by speaking of the characteristics of the Mormon people. He called attention to the fact that they had no hired ministry, yet there were no less than 60,000 men in the church ready at a moment's notice to go out and preach the gospel to the world. The elders, he said, were the creative factors and the productive element of the church. To their energy and work he attributed the growth of Zion and the successful transformation of this desert valley into a thriving district of farms and towns.

"The Mormons," said he, "are made up of the common people, those who toil and preach at the same time, but they need not be ashamed to look the world in the face, for it was their energy that made the valley of Zion what it is.

The Ideal American.
"Only a short time ago I heard some young people talking, and one said that J. Pierpont Morgan was the ideal American. I want to say to you that in the case of this nation are numbered. I know there is a tendency to amass great wealth, but there are other things to be looked at. Washington, of course, is immortal, and Lincoln is the hero of a trying time. Some have said that McKinley was the ideal American, but at his death Roosevelt gave a new tinge to American character.

"If we look over the country where we live, the true type of the American I can say without hesitating that the true ideal of an American is to be found here. This people will yet become the backbone of the nation. Not that we are better than any other people in the world, but we are made up of the people who labor and toil. The Latter-day Saints have accomplished more morally, socially and morally than any other people in the world."

The first speaker of the afternoon was Elder George G. Smith, recently returned from a tour of duty in Washington. He reported that the work was progressing there. He said that not many converts were being made, but that prejudice against Mormonism was being allayed.

IN THEIR PROPER LIGHT.

Rev. D. J. McMillan Speaks on How Things Should Be Viewed.

Rev. D. J. McMillan of New York City preached at the Third Presbyterian church last evening. He took as his subject the twenty-sixth chapter of Psalms, ninth verse: "For with thee is the fountain of life, in thy light shall we see light."

Mr. McMillan spoke first of the necessity of viewing things in their proper light. He illustrated his point by telling of the different ways of looking at a fine painting or other work of art.

"If you do not happen to stand at the proper distance from the object the beauty of the picture is in a measure spoiled. The true worth of a picture cannot be appreciated unless you view it from the same point of view as the maker.

So with the happenings of life, they are not fully understood until seen in God's light. Things often happen to us that we cannot at first understand. But when we see them in their proper light, we are able to see them as they are.

The speaker here referred to Abraham Lincoln's defeat in his race for the United States senatorship by Stephen A. Douglas.

"This at first seemed a defeat, but it was really the beginning of the victory. If Lincoln had been elected senator the chances are very great that he would never have become president of the United States."

Mr. McMillan took the stand that back of everything that occurs is a divine purpose.

"Very often," said he, "the purpose is not clear to us at the time, but in some later time it is sure to be revealed."

The Life of Daniel.
At the Cliff M. E. church yesterday morning Rev. D. M. Helmich took for his subject, "The Severe Test on Righteous Integrity." His text was from the sixth chapter of Daniel, sixteenth verse: "Thy God whom thou serve continually, he will deliver thee."

Mr. Helmich prefaced his remarks with a review of the life of Daniel and told of his steadfast courage in following the dictates of his God. He pictured his hardships and sufferings and told how he finally triumphed so that even his enemies respected him.

"These are the kind of men the world wants right now," said Mr. Helmich. "The man who has not the courage to follow his convictions is unworthy. What we need most are men who cannot be swayed from what they believe to be right and just."

INJURED DOING WELL.

No Further Deaths Expected From Chehalis Accident.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 23.—Those injured in the railroad accident near Chehalis yesterday were brought here in a special train, which arrived at 4 p. m. A large delegation from the Portland lodge of Elks was at the central station with stretchers and ambulances in order to bear the injured to their homes in the hospital. In all about twenty-five of the injured were brought here, some with broken arms or legs, others with backs injured and faces disfigured. All the injured are reported as doing well and it is believed none will die.

Mrs. C. R. Brown, Charles Frank and Charles Evans were the most seriously injured. They were brought here last night and their physicians say all will recover.

AGAIN IN ERUPTION.

Naples, Aug. 23.—The prediction of Prof. Ruffi of Munich has been fulfilled, as Vesuvius last night had a fresh period of activity. Frequent explosions were heard, and stones were thrown to a height of 500 feet above the crater, while at the same time a slight earthquake was felt. The stream of lava has again begun flowing in the direction of Pompeii, although its progress is slow. The volcanic eruption is diminishing tonight.

MOVEMENTS KEPT SECRET.

Rockland, Me., Aug. 23.—The vessels of Rear Admiral Barker's attacking squadron still remain in the harbor. There are conflicting reports as to when they will leave, the general belief being that they will not do so before Monday afternoon, although they may depart between midnight and daybreak.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE RULES

Free Delivery Service Has Undergone a Change.

NOT SO EASY AS IT WAS

OLD ORDER OF THINGS PASSED WITH MACHEN.

(Special to The Herald.)
Washington, Aug. 23.—Contrary to the general understanding, no new rules have been made for the rural free delivery service since its transfer from the office of the first assistant postmaster general to that of the fourth assistant postmaster general, except that one rule has been amended so as to give the rural free delivery service delivery in sparsely settled districts west of the Mississippi. There has been so much misrepresentation of the policy of the postoffice department by those interested in distracting attention from the mismanagement and irregularities that characterized the service under Superintendent Machen and by congressmen and others who secured special favors from Machen and are now disturbed because they can secure no more improper favors, that it is best that the exact state of facts should be presented. Then, too, members of the house and of the senate, misunderstanding the policy of the department, are apprehensive lest the rural free delivery system may be abandoned in the immediate future.

Under the Machen regime, the rules formulated for the management and extension of the rural free delivery service were grossly violated and later completely disregarded. Now they are being enforced. The rules remain the same. Formerly they were not enforced. Now they are. That is the difference between the free administration of Machen and the wise administration of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow. Formerly those who were friendly to Superintendent Machen were given preference in the establishment of routes. Now the routes are established in the order they are petitioned for.

Making No Haste.
The postoffice department has as yet abandoned no routes that were established under former Superintendent Machen, although some that were ordered before his dismissal, but which had not yet been established, have not been created. As a striking indication of the interest taken by the department in the establishment of rural free delivery routes and in the wise extension of this important service, it is to be observed that in the first month of the present fiscal year, July, 2,455 rural routes were established, as compared with 2,664 in the fiscal year which ended with the 30th of last June. In this connection, it is to be said that during the six weeks of the late fiscal year no routes were established because of the exhaustion of the appropriation. There remains unallotted a sum sufficient to establish 4,000 additional routes. It can easily be seen, then, that the rural service is being extended at a faster rate than when Machen was in charge.

Expressions of anxiety have been recently heard lest the west would not accept its proper proportion of the rural service under the new management. It has been represented that the new policy was prejudicial to the western interest. But under the old regime the rural route should not exceed 25 miles. They still so provide, but in the country west of the Mississippi, in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Oklahoma, and western Texas, where the roads are dry and hard and level the rule has been so amended as to permit rural routes to be 30 miles in length, provided the roads will permit. As a practical question it is easier to serve a route 30 miles long in the west than it is in Ohio or Indiana, and especially in Pennsylvania and Virginia, because the western roads are drier and the country more level. Thus, under the new system the west should gain rather than lose in the number of routes established.

In 1899, when the rural free delivery system had ceased to be an experiment, or rather, when the first experiments of serious consequence were made and it appeared that the service was certain to become an established fact, it was provided by the rules that there should be no less than 100 families on each route. In the book of instructions to rural inspectors, issued March 28, 1901, it was provided that the "prerequisites" for the establishment of a rural free delivery route were: "A percentage of 100 families on a route projected, passable roads at all seasons, etc." That rule has never been modified. It was always in existence. But under the Machen regime that rule was frequently violated, so when a congressman insisted upon a route and he was in favor with the rural free delivery bureau, the route was established. Violations became so general by Superintendent Machen that the special agent in charge of the service disregarded the rules recklessly.

"Pull" Has Disappeared.
The policy since Machen's dismissal has been to establish every route that met the requirements. If a route petitioned for did not meet requirements, it was not established. With this exception of the rule, congressmen who secured improper favors before Machen's dismissal have disappeared. The department will not now establish a route simply upon the request of a congressman. Conditions must qualify its establishment. Hence the criticism and misrepresentation of the exact state of facts.

Routes petitioned for that have been rejected because they do not seem to meet the requirements, are often re-examined upon the request of a congressman or a community. The effort is then made to make the route comply with the requirements, perhaps by changing its direction so as to take in more people, or in some other proper way, provided upon its first rejection the route came near meeting the requirements of the rules.

Routes are established upon petitions of communities desiring them. The region is generally divided into congressional districts in which the petition is made. The petition is given proper consideration, and the route established if it is within the rules, for there is no purpose to deprive the congressman of the legitimate fruit of his position.

Investigations of projected routes are rigid and fair. Petitions are considered in the order they are filed, though at intervals exceptions are made for congressmen when special reasons are assigned, but those reasons must be good. The policy of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow and of his assistant, acting Superintendent of Free Delivery Routes, is to be fair to all sections of the country, to show no favoritism, and to live up to the rules and to give the best service to the people that is possible. The president, Postmaster General Payne, and the fourth assistant postmaster general believe that in such a policy the public will sustain them.

BE GOVERNOR

So It Is Given Out at the National Capital.

WILL BE GIVEN HIGHER RANK

OPPOSITION TO GOVERNMENT IRRIGATION.

(Special to The Herald.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—It has been suggested that the proposed selection of Governor Taft as a successor of Secretary Root originates in a desire on the part of the president to prepare the way for the appointment of General Wood as civil governor of the Philippines. It can be stated positively that matters stand today, at least, General Wood's name is not even under consideration in such a connection. It is also known that the general was not a criterion upon which to base a safe estimate, this year's crop will be one of the best seen in years. The grain makes a magnificent showing in the fields, the stand being thick and healthy and the heads being heavy with apparently plump, solid grain. The water supply held out sufficiently long to give the grain about all the water it needed, which accounts for the splendid condition of the grain.

The hay crop is about all up now, a few farmers having the second crop to harvest yet. Hay is much better this year than for several years also. The finest crop of lucern was a fine one as were the single crop growths.

The second crop was lighter, but far ahead of average. As both hay and grain are commanding good prices this year, the agriculturists of this section of the state are feeling joyful over the outlook. Mrs. Annie Schomover and children came in today from Colorado to make a visit to her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. and Mrs. Roswell McArthur and family returned from a lengthy trip to the south and the west. Miss McArthur was seriously affected by the high altitude of the park and was quite ill before she reached home.

Mrs. Francis Jensen returned Thursday from a trip through southern Idaho.

VERNAL NEWS NOTES.
Deserter From Fort Duchesne Being Rounded Up.

Vernal, Aug. 23.—A squad of soldiers from Duchesne passed through here today from Brown's park, with four deserters in charge, who were rounded at that place, having deserted from the post several days ago.

They were working on a hay ranch and evidently thought they were safe in that out-of-the-way section. There have been more deserters from Fort Duchesne in the past few weeks.

The companies stationed at the fort have looked expectantly for order to proceed to the Philippines for some time, but a few weeks ago the order to prepare for the change. The last number of deserters was due to this cause. Another order was recently received, however, to proceed to the Philippines, and the boys who are being taken back will have the additional mortification of seeing their former comrades off on the long look-out trip.

Utah county will send a delegation to the National Irrigation congress at Ogden, Utah county. Vernal City and the various canal companies will send delegates. The Ashley River Irrigation company yesterday appointed William O'Neill and George Smith as delegates.

An unusually large number of students are leaving the county this year to attend the different colleges at Salt Lake, Logan and Provo. There will be in the neighborhood of thirty attend school in the latter place alone from Vernal and vicinity.

E. E. Colpin has opened up a drug business in this place. The grain yield is reported above the average.

The Vernal city council has granted a telephone franchise to Harlan Benning and W. P. Colpin. The council has also passed an ordinance fixing a salary schedule for the next city election. The Ashley river mayor and council have served without pay and the new order of things is causing some dissatisfaction.

Threshing has commenced throughout the county. The grain yield is reported above the average.

HARVEST COMMENCES

Wheat Stands Heavy in Fields and Heads Are Plump—

Other Notes.

Other Notes.
Mt. Pleasant, Aug. 23.—Harvesting the grain crop began in this section last week and the threshers are now steadily at work. Although it is a little early to make a safe prediction of the grain crop for the season, the outlook is bright. The grain makes a magnificent showing in the fields, the stand being thick and healthy and the heads being heavy with apparently plump, solid grain. The water supply held out sufficiently long to give the grain about all the water it needed, which accounts for the splendid condition of the grain.
